SPLIT MILK

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—A rare 1776 coin treasured by Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Buckingham was just another coin among 45,000 today. The couple accidentally put it in a parking meter while shopping Tuesday.

By the time they returned, a policeman had emptied the meter and the First National Bank had put the receipts — 45,000 coins — into rolls.

TAME DUCKS KILLED

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)—An unidentified hunter faces a rough time for shooting four mallard ducks on a private farm pond if he is ever caught.

The four ducks had their wings clipped and, according to the owner, were "so tame they'd swim up to you while you fed them."

The owner is Sheriff Roy Taylor.

Killer's Wife Will Keep Two Children

TOKYO, Nov. 30. (AP)—The soft-spoken wife of the confessed killer of nine-year-old Susan Rothchild pledged today to devote her life to caring for her two adopted Japanese children.

The children are my responsibility and I will see that they are cared for," said Mrs. Jeanne Schick.

Her husband, Master Sgt. Maurice L. Schick, broke down after a lie detector test last week and told how, with a strange urge to kill, he strangled the Rothchild girl and held her head under water until she was sure she was dead.

Then the sergeant, a Boy Scout master and Sunday School teacher, returned to his yellow frame house and played with the two children he and his wife had found in Japanese orphanages.

While Schick, whose confession stunned his officers and fellow soldiers, awaited psychiatric examinations and general court martial charges, an Army officer visited his 30-year-old wife at the request of his own men.

Mrs. Schick, the former Jean Miller of Falling Waters, W. Va., has refused to see the press since her husband's confession.

"His home life has been of such nature that both children are intelligent, amiable, well-mannered and obedient," the officer reported. "For the first time in their orphaned life they have known what it is like to be loved and a part of a family group."

The Schicks, who arrived in Japan in June, 1952, adopted Medley Lynn, now 5, in October of that year and last March they adopted Marianne, 2½.

Mrs. Schick, who once won a silver cup in a spelling bee and who skipped two grades in school, met her husband in 1945 while he was recuperating in an Army hospital from wounds received in Germany.

"Jeanne was walking down the street and saw a soldier lose one of his crutches," the officer said. "She helped him and he bought her a cup of coffee. That casual meeting led to their wedding four months later in the little town of Four Mile Woods, W. Va."

The Army spokesman said the Schicks, unable to have their own children, attempted to adopt a child in the United States but constant moving from one Army post to another made it impossible.

The spokesman said Mrs. Schick's grief over her husband's act was more than her concern for the "care and well being of her two children, upon whom she is giving all the love and affection it is humanly possible for a mother to give her children."

Last Thursday night, Sgt. and Mrs. Schick celebrated Thanksgiving with another Army couple over a turkey dinner.

Schick was a free man and no one suspected he was the slayer of the attractive, tomboyish daughter of one of his neighbors, Col. and Mrs. Jacques H. Rothchild, Chicago.

Two Japanese girls had pointed out Schick as resembling the suspect, but they said he was not the man.

Twenty-four hours after the Thanksgiving dinner, Schick was picked up by Military Police who started the questioning that led to the confession.

CLASSIFIED ADS IN THE LEDGER AND TIMES WILL PAY DIVIDENDS

Stop that classified ad was the first telephone call of the day this morning. It was Carmon Parks of Hazel who had inserted an ad to sell a used electric range.

The advertisement was scheduled to run for three days, but the insertion Saturday was all that it took for Carmon to sell the range.

Classified ads in the daily Ledger and Times represent one of the best mediums in Murray and the most economical, for anyone who wishes to buy, sell, or trade a Ledger and Times classified ad today.

Kentucky Basketball Underway
ay Splits Opening Games

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 30. (AP)—The college basketball season in Kentucky was all swing today, almost before the football cheers died away, with a 20-game schedule coming up in this first big week of the new season.

Two of the state's promising national powers, Louisville and Kentucky, will make their debuts this week, while Western, Eastern and Murray already have their seasons underway.

Louisville's Cardinals, hoping to have one of their greatest seasons with a veteran team, open tonight at Louisville against Kentucky Wesleyan.

Kentucky will be watched by basketball fans the nation over Saturday night, when it meets Temple at Lexington in a game that returns the fabulous Wildcats to action after a year's layoff enforced by the NCAA as an outgrowth of the point-shaving scandal.

Just how tough Adolph Rupp's outcasts, Cats, will be after a year of nothing but practice is probably the most intriguing question of the sports season.

Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers already have opened their season with victories over a tough Ft. Belvoir team led by Dick Groat, and over Kentucky Wesleyan, 86-74, last Saturday night. The Hilltoppers aren't scheduled again until Saturday, when they meet Southeast Louisiana.

Eastern's Maroons also are on the move, having won their opener from Centre at Danville, 78-55, Saturday evening. They have an Ohio Valley Conference tilt with Middle Tennessee coming up at Richmond Tuesday night, then take on a real toughie at Dayton Saturday night.

Murray State's youngsters did it the hard way, opening with an Eastern road trip that saw them lose to Siena, 62-49, but beat St. Bonaventure, 68-69. They'll be at Morehead Saturday night for an OVC tilt.

Two teams already have cracked the century mark. Western beating Belmont 108-75, and Union trouncing Johnson Bible College, 120-63.

Here's the complete schedule for the week, through next Saturday night:

MONDAY
Middle Tennessee at Morehead
Kentucky Wesleyan at Morehead

TUESDAY
Evansville at Murray
Middle Tennessee at Eastern
Union at Cincinnati
Bellarmine at Hanover
Cincinnati Bible at Georgetown

WEDNESDAY
Morehead at Louisville
Union at Xavier
S.E. Louisiana at Ky. Wesleyan

THURSDAY
No Game Scheduled

FRIDAY
Gustavus Adolphus at Western
Transylvania at Wittenberg

SATURDAY
Temple at Kentucky
Eastern at Dayton
Georgetown at Louisville
Murray at Morehead
S.E. Louisiana at Western
Gustavus Adolphus at Wesleyan
Wittenberg at Berea
Kentucky State at Bellarmine

Mrs. Heady Has Tombstone, Grave All Picked Out

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Bonnie Brown Heady, her tombstone and grave already selected, fretted in Death Row today over the future of her boxer dog, Doc.

The plump divorcee, who with her degenerate lover kidnaped and murdered 6-year-old Bobby Green, will die in the gas-chamber at Missouri State Prison here Dec. 18. Fellow kidnaper, Carl Austin Hall, will be executed with her for the $600,000 Kansas City crime.

Acquaintances of Mrs. Heady at St. Joseph, Mo., where she lived at the time of the crime, revealed Sunday that she had communicated several last wishes about her dog in letters.

Clinton L. Allen, a monument dealer at Maryville, Mo., near Mrs. Heady's birthplace, disclosed she had asked him to pick out a tombstone "because I might be needing it soon."

It appeared possible today that the boxer might follow its mistress in death.

Bob Castle, an employee in a St. Joseph dog hospital to whom Mrs. Heady wrote requesting that he "find a good home" for the boxer, said the dog may not be easy to place.

The dog has "an odd disposition," he said.

He loves to fight other animals and will kill stock and chickens, Castle said, "so it may not be easy to find a home for him."

"She stipulated that if a good home can't be found for the dog, that the animal be put to death in a humane manner," he said.

$1500 In Prizes Are Given Away

The Murray Opportunity Days sales event closed last Saturday with prizes being given on the South Side of the Court Square at 2:00 p.m.

One of the largest crowds ever to gather in Murray was present for the giving of the $1500 in prizes.

Estimates ranged from three to four thousand people who gathered on the court square.

Registration has taken place during the past eight weeks at the participating stores in Murray, and records indicate that 55,000 persons registered for the $1500 in prizes.

Buel Jetton, 1407 Main Street, led the Samsonite luggage.

Miss Clara Nell Darnell, 519 South 4th Street, "White King" 11 cubic foot home freezer.

Mrs. J. B. Starks, Murray Route four, Westinghouse electric sewing machine.

Maggie Miller, 607 Pine Street, Columbia bicycle.

Mrs. Carl Hopkins, Farmington Route two, RCA television set.

Mrs. James Shelton, 304 North 4th Street, dinette-suit.

Rosell Pool, Murray Route one, Norge Washing Machine.

Edwin H. Parks, Murray Route four, Belgium made Browning 16 gauge automatic shotgun.

R. A. Jones, Murray Route two, 72-piece silverware set.

Clara Nelle Cunningham, 111 South 10th Street, Tappan gas range, installed.

The Murray Opportunity Days, generally considered to have been a successful sales event.

SLIP-UP

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Burglary suspect George W. Thornton, 24, learned that another prison inmate, Edward Wiener, 18, was due for release and decided to take a short cut to freedom.

After perfecting an imitation of Wiener's signature Thornton signed the other inmate's release slips, property slips and the release book.

But just a few short steps to freedom Thornton was foiled when he had to put his fingerprints on the jail record card.

Additional charges of forgery and attempted escape will be filed against him.

BARE FACTS

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Blonde housewife Mrs. Patricia Muncy, 28, sought $100,010.53 damages from a department store today charging that her new white bathing suit turned transparent under the glare of public gaze and ridicule.

She asked $100,000 for "shock" and $10.53 to cover the price of the swimsuit.

"Well, it is a sad thing to hinder a club for its success. But that's the way it is. There is a strong feeling in the league that nobody ought to do any business with the Yankees. And I'll tell you I don't think that we're gonna manage to make a deal at these meetings. Even though we may need some pitching and could give up a first line player or two to get it."

Claim Rejected By Neutral Repatriation Commission

By JAMES MORRISSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The Neutral Repatriation Commission told 22 unrepatriated Americans today their claims that the United States fraudulently used the mails to coerce them into going home were untrue.

U.S. Gen. K.S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission, sent the Americans, one Briton and 328 South Koreans a rejection of their charges and enclosed a copy of Geneva Convention provisions on war prisoners.

The prisoners, who refused to go home in Operation Big Switch last summer, submitted a petition Nov. 6 charging the United States tried to bribe them with letters instead of propaganda.

One of the prisoners' claims was that Washington had "innocent school girls" write come-home letters to them. Allied officers said the letters were of a patriotic instead of propagandist nature.

The commission sided with the prisoners on their complaint that some of the newspapers and magazines mailed to them were "undesirable in nature."

Henceforth, the commission said, all mail sent to the prisoners will be censored and all objectionable matter deleted.

The complaint, signed by Sgt. Richard G. Corden, identified in his service record as the brother of Miss Ursula J. Corden of East Providence, R.I.; the lone Briton and one South Korean, accused the United States of "maliciously and fraudulently" using the mails in an attempt to lure them home. It was not released until Sunday.

None of the Americans has been interviewed by Allied "explainers" who now are trying to get permission to spend several days talking to the men.

Under the commission's ruling, "explainers" of both sides must interview more than 500 prisoners in one day, which, if carried out, would limit the Allied program to 24 hours.

The Communist interviews have been suspended because of Red demands to interview less than 500 anti-Communist North Koreans and Chinese daily.

Jon Lindbergh In Fight To Save Climber

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif., Nov. 30. (AP)—Adventurous Jon Lindbergh, saddened by the death of a fellow mountain climber, today refused to discuss his part in a dramatic 16-hour fight to save the climber's life on an alpine snowfield.

The victim, 30-year-old Werner Hopf of Bern, Switzerland died Sunday in a hastily-built igloo on the 10,900-foot level of Mount Shasta after he tumbled 800 feet down an ice chute.

Lindbergh, son of the famous New York-to-Paris flier, and others in the party brought down the body Sunday afternoon. They declined to discuss the tragedy with anyone except Skiway County Coroner Lloyd Noble.

Noble said Hopf, Lindbergh and seven other men and eight women, all members of the Stanford University Alpine Club, arrived here Thursday to go mountain climbing over the Thanksgiving weekend.

They pitched their tents at Horse Camp, 7,500 feet up the mountain. At 4 a.m. Saturday, six of the men, including Lindbergh, started out on skis to try to reach the 14,162-foot summit.

The temperature was below freezing and a hard crust of ice covered the snow. By 8:30 a.m. the party had worked its way up to a point just below an area known as the Red Banks, 12,000 feet up.

Hopf, an experienced climber engaged in television research at Stanford, was leading the way up an almost vertical, icy slope. He was still wearing skis, although the others had abandoned theirs in favor of crampons, or ice spikes buckled over the soles of climbing boots.

Suddenly, he slipped and plummeted down a deadly slide known as the Ice Chute.

By the time Hopf stopped falling, his skis had been wrenched off. His companions formed a makeshift litter of four skis and pulled him 500 feet down the mountainside to flat ground on the shore of Lake Helen.

"At 1:45 p.m.," Noble said, "Hopf apparently stopped breathing and artificial respiration was started, and this was continued for about 11 hours, until it was realized nothing more could be done."

Hopf's companions took turns giving artificial respiration, and built a crude igloo to shelter him from the icy winds.

After Hopf died, Lindbergh and the others brought the body down and it was taken to Mount Shasta.

He is survived by his wife, Maribel, 22, a native of Spain.

"Kegnappped" Keg To Be Returned

LEXINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—The stolen beer keg, symbolic of football supremacy between the Universities of Kentucky and Tennessee was to be formally returned to the Kentucky campus today by Tennessee students.

Tennessee's all-student council president, Robert S. Allison, was to return the keg actually vinegar barrel, in formal ceremonies.

The keg was stolen from Kentucky's Coliseum by 14 Tennessee fraternity brothers last Wednesday. It had been won the week before when Kentucky beat its arch-rival 27-21 for its first victory over the Vols in 18 years.

Victory gave Kentucky the right to the keg. But Tennessee students declared a foul and "kegnapped" the victory symbol. They claimed quarterback Bob Hardy's knees were touching the ground when he huddled off the line to Ralph Paolone for the winning touchdown.

SHOULD TAXES BE UNIFORM?

The income tax law, and the amendment to the constitution to make the law legal, were adopted as a levy against wealthy people, or those with exceptional high incomes. It could never have been passed as a general revenue measure.

Many good people opposed the income tax because they said there was no such thing as having a "graduated income tax," and make it uniform. There would always be those, they said, who would be smart enough to evade payment of some or all of the tax, thereby making the rate on honest people who complied with it, and made no effort to evade it, much too high.

Since the tax now applies to everybody who earns more than $600.00 a year, which means everybody gainfully employed, the ways of evading payment have become almost without number.

There are so many evasions that we no longer make any attempt to hide some of them, and we wouldn't like it if the government decided to make a real attempt to uncover them.

For instance: if a carpenter earns $5,000.00 a year at his trade he will have to pay a substantial income tax. How to evade it? What's wrong with building a house for himself on which he does $5,000 worth of carpenter work? Technically he should pay the internal revenue service the same amount of taxes on his work for himself as though he had done it for someone else and received pay for it. But who's going to do it? And who's going to complain because he doesn't. We just consider him smart and let it go at that. And the same is true of a painter, plumber or printer.

And if we think such a case is isolated, or unusual, it is time to check up. According to an article in a current magazine working for ourselves without income tax liability has become one of the largest occupations in the country, if not the largest.

The manufacture and sale of house paint has increased fifty percent in five years. Yet the number of journeyman painters who follow the trade for a livelihood has actually decreased. Who is using the paint? You guessed it. You, or your neighbor. Maybe both. And Uncle Sam collects no income tax on fifty percent of the house painting done in America.

One may think this makes little difference in the government's income because it affects so few people. But amateurs are also hanging paper, laying brick, mending leaky faucets, landscaping. In fact some are building houses for themselves, and to sell. They pay no income tax because they have no income from their own work, and the tax collector probably figures he will get even if, and when they ever sell what they build.

Well, let's see about that. The magazine tells about a couple who made the down payment on a small house right after they married in 1946. They had only $260 left. They had no furniture. Instead of using the $260.00 as a down-payment on furniture they invested it in power tools and materials and made all their furniture.

Two years ago a family liked what they had bought, and made, so well it paid them $19,000.00 cash for the house and furniture. Here's where the government collects on capital gains tax, you may think. Nothing of the kind. They took advantage of the amendment to the income tax law that permits them to re-invest the $19,000.00 in another house to live in within 12 months. There is no tax when all the money is re-invested.

They purchased a tract of land and used the rest of the money to buy materials. They then went to work and built a house. A committee of realtors appraised the value at at least $25,000.00 even before the house was finished. In seven years the couple, who now have three children, have accumulated what would have been considered a fortune a generation ago, and kept all the fruits of their labor without violating the income tax law.

Multiply this case by ten or fifteen million and it's easy to see that only a part of the population pays most of the income tax. Also it will be easy to see that the rate could be substantially decreased if everybody paid tax on all he earns. But the most surprising thing one would learn is that the original opponents of the income tax law early in the century were 100 percent right when they said there would never be such a thing as a "uniform income tax law" and that any tax levied which is not uniform is a violation of our constitution.

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Basketball, in case you haven't noticed, is with us again today and whether your court conversation is about teams or individuals the vengeance-bound Wildcats of Kentucky are going to rank mighty high this winter.

The selection of "all" teams still is concentrated at the moment on football, but if you want to select a pre-season basketball five you'd have a difficult time keeping off two of the Kentuckians. From here such a club would stack up this way:

Frank Ramsey and Cliff Hagan, both of Kentucky; Tom Gola of LaSalle in Philadelphia, Don Schlundt of Indiana and Bob Pettit of Louisiana State. Strangely enough, each is from his school state.

Kentucky figures to be the scourge of the hardwood, for the team is bristling over its one-year suspension and has all its old talent fired by "we'll show 'em" determination. For national honors it will give Indiana a rugged run, with Duquesne as an outside possibility.

Basketball on the whole should reach a new all-time peak because it is doubtful whether there ever were as many polished stars available, even in the immediate post-war era.

A few of these include such as Frank Selvy of Furman, Dick Ricketts and Jim Tuckey of Duquesne, B. H. Born of Kansas, Bob Leonard of Indiana, Bob McKeen of California, Johnny Kerr of Illinois, Larry Costello of Niagara.

Bob Matlack of the Oklahoma Aggies, Harry Brooks of Seton Hall, John Horn of Dayton, Mel Thompson of North Carolina State, Tom Marshall of Western Kentucky and Bill Sharp of Wyoming. As a second team to those picked as the five best, pre-season calculations give the nod to Selvy, Ricketts, Born, Leonard and McKeen.

But there doesn't seem to be much chance of denying the Big Five, particularly if Kentucky makes the type of comeback expected.

Ramsey and Hagan both proved two years ago that they were among the best—as well as the fact that you don't have to be a "goon" if you are a medium-tall skyscraper. Hagan is "only" 6-foot 4-inches while Ramsey goes 6-3.

The three others make up for that "lack" of height. Gola, the 19-year old Philadelphia, with probably the greatest assortment of shots in college ranks, is a mere 6-foot 6-inches, but Schlundt, who paced Indiana to the NCAA title, is 6-9, as is Pettit, the "hottest item" below the Mason-Dixon stripe.

Leonard and Ricketts would seem to have the best chance of cracking that first five.

But while Indiana's Big Ten and NCAA champions are loaded again, as far as team honors go they had all better watch out for Kentucky.

The Wildcats are buffed and bitted—and ready to pour it on!

Members of 4-H Clubs were guests at a luncheon of the Kentucky Chain Store Council at Tompkinsville.

LUCKY HUNTER

Deer hunter Harry L. Crosby, 32, Tusconah, Mich., was accidentally shot but had only a sore back today.

A bullet from the gun of Charles Grossen, 69, Cheboygan, struck Crosby's back—but it went through a 14-inch pine tree and four layers of clothing first. Crosby suffered only a small scratch and a bruise as a result of the accident.

A considerable number of farmers in Lyon county sold corn for $1.30 a bushel.

CONFIDENCE MAN

NEW YORK (UP)—City prison officials admitted today they had been duped by a confidence man pulling what was probably the master stroke of his career.

The man, being held on grand larceny charges, walked out of jail posing as another prisoner who was to be released on bail.

The Department of Correction identified the slick prisoner as James Briggs, 39, of Brooklyn, who was in the "New Tomb" prison waiting hearing on fugitive warrants charging him with grand larceny in New Jersey and Michigan.

Warden Herman J. Ruthazer said a bondsman posted $500 bail Friday for Herbert Brown, 21, a burglary suspect who was sharing a cell with Briggs. A jailer went to get Brown and found one cellmate asleep and the other awake. The one who was awake said he was Brown.

An hour later Briggs—not Brown—went free.

Fewer In State In Death Total

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UP)—The percentage of Kentuckians in the total number of persons killed on state highways during the first 9 months of 1953 was down slightly from the same period in 1952 and 13 fewer home-state motorists were killed during the period.

Charles B. Jones, executive secretary of the Governor's Committee for Highway Safety, said that there were eight more out-of-state persons killed in Kentucky during the period than through September last year and that the total killed was down five. September is the last month for which a full breakdown of figures is available.

For the first nine months of 1952 there were 578 highway deaths, of which 466 were Kentuckians. For the same period this year deaths totaled 573, including 453 Kentuckians. The percentage of Kentuckians listed dropped from 80.4 to 79.

Jones said that for the first time in several years Kentucky has a good chance of ending the year with fewer home-state motorists killed than during a preceding year. Indications now are that the total dead will go over the 1952 figure of 795.

"Although the drop in Kentucky deaths—in figures that are complete—is slight, it is encouraging and may mean that our efforts to publicize safety are paying off," Jones said. "It looked for a time as if we might drop under the 1952 total of all deaths but it doesn't look that way now. If fewer Kentuckians are killed that will at least be one bright spot on the record."

Jones said that deaths lagged behind 1952 figures for the most of the year but that two weeks ago the trend was reversed. He blamed exceptionally good fall driving weather and increased traffic for an upsurge in deaths within the last months.

COSTLY SALE
COLUMBUS, MISS. (UP)—Two year old Nate Pack's first driving "lesson" cost his father $350.

Nate's first solo excursion carried the car against a neighbor's garage. Nate, left alone in the car, somehow got the engine started and in gear and then got down on the floorboard and pressed the accelerator.

Killed Husband

MRS. DOROTHY RENNER, 43, who bludgeoned her husband to death with a hammer because he changed their place of residence repeatedly, sits in 10th Precinct police station in the Queens section of New York. She told police, "He told me last night that we were going to move again. After he went to sleep I went to a tool chest and got out a sledge hammer and struck him." They moved from California to New York recently. Next stop was to have been Oregon. (International)

Names of Farms
May Be Registered

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Do you want an exclusive name for your farm? A total of 430 Kentucky landowners have registered names for their farms with the state Department of Agriculture—and paid the $1.00 required deposit fee—to protect the name against infringement from other sources.

Registration with the Department of Agriculture is the only means by which a person may obtain the exclusive right to the use of a registered name.

Among names on file are "Buzard's," "Roose," "Briar Patch," "Back Of The Moon," "Black Acres," "Pleasant Retreat," and "Caintuckee."
